

CORNISH COACHING INN

Organically grown from humble beginnings, The Plume of Feathers is a 16th Century coaching inn with bags of history (it is even said that John Wesley, the credited founder of Methodism, once preached under the famous pillars).

Bought as a derelict building in 2000, the inn has now been lovingly restored to its former glory and, even today, you can still see the original village well located in the oldest part of the pub.

Today, The Plume is a popular eatery and meeting destination. Its Cornish countryside location, the village of Mitchell, sits on a historic crossroads, dissecting the north and south and the east and west of Cornwall.
